Everybody in town is being advised this morning to "do nothing until you have seen Charley's Aunt" meaning of course the leading lady, who is really a gentleman, in the benefit performance for the Hawaii Yacht Club which takes place on Thursday and Saturday evenings of this week. The advice, according to reports from rehearsals in all other engagements upon one of those evenings. The play and the players are all thoroughly up to date and the performance should be a notable one in the annals of local amateur affairs.

Special pains are being taken with the scenery and on the premises of Harry Couzens and Allan Dunn, much is being expected in the way of stage settings especially in the first act showing typical college rooms of a young collegian at Oxford. Charley's Aunt is a thoroughly sound play, full of harmless fun from beginning to end and the present sale of seats, obtainable at Wall Nichols and Company, indicates that the debts of the Hawaii Yacht Club are in a fair way of being cleared off.
